Composite door

The Haydon Home composite door combines elegant styling with high performance. Its timber core construction differentiates it from most other brands which use a foam core. This solid timber gives the door an inner strength and a solid colour skin extends its durability and ensures that the door is maintenance-free.

The range is wide, combining contemporary and traditional styles to suit all tastes. All doors are available in many colours both inside and out, highlighting Haydon Home's commitment to customer choice. All door styles are also available as a stable door - the ideal solution for linking the kitchen to the garden.

Combining all this with an extensive range of security locking and quality furniture, the Haydon Home door is equipped to meet exacting customer requirements and grace any home.

Sidelights and flag windows

The Haydon Home composite door can be coupled to any design of PVC-U window from the Haydon Home range - it will not look out of place as the composite door uses the same range of framing sections as the other Haydon Home PVC-U products.

Black and white

The Haydon Home composite door slab is available with a white woodgrain skin to match the white woodgrain foil that is used on Haydon Home's other PVC-U products. The slab is also available with a black woodgrain skin externally that matches the black foil used on our black/white range of products (please note that this skin is different from the standard black composite skin).

Guarantee

The Haydon Home composite door is guaranteed for 10 years.
